

FLAMTASTIQUE

This super-sized oil lamp brings everyone together.

Here's the story

A cozy get-together around a fireplace. What's not to like? Flamtastique throws a completely different light on a burner. Essentially, it's an environmentally friendly, oversized bioethanol oil lamp.

Fatboy's Flamtastique is an abstract version of the old-fashioned oil lamp, but super-sized. In addition to providing light, this outdoor fireplace will also keep you warm, till deep into the night. So let yourself be mesmerized by its flickering flames, then start outdoing one another with your campfire stories.

Solid and atmospheric

Flamtastique stands firmly on its recycled-plastic base, which you can make heavier with sand or water. This way, your bioethanol outdoor fireplace will withstand all that our weather can throw at it. The central part is fabricated from strong metal with anti-corrosion treatment. Fill the reservoir with bioethanol, light it up with a long match or lighter and your oil lamp will burn all evening. The strong, heat-resistant glass protects you from the flames, but allows the warmth to reach you. Hey, is that the sound of a guitar being tuned?

Make every evening flamtastique

Flamtastique is easy to switch on – and off again. This oil lamp comes with a lid that fits perfectly over the glass tube, thus extinguishing the flame at a stroke. Very convenient when bedtime eventually does arrive. To regulate the height of the flame you just turn the large lug. All of which makes Flamtastique the most convenient campfire ever. Night, after night, after night.
